

Go to school without going hungry.

Get SNAP.

You don't have to skip meals. SNAP can help.

With so many worries about staying safe while getting an education, college students should not have to worry about where their next meal will come from. But many do. SNAP can help you buy the food you need so you can focus on school.

The Nutrition Outreach and Education Program (NOEP) can help you learn if you may be eligible for SNAP. NOEP can also help you complete and submit your application.

NOEP services are available by phone, email or online. It is free and confidential.
